Important information about Fraud

When you send money, you should be absolutely certain you know who your receiver (the beneficiary) is and what the transfer will be used for. Be aware of the possibility of fraud, including investment scams. You should be satisfied that the beneficiary is acting legitimately, particularly if you have not dealt with them previously.

Some examples where you should exercise caution before proceeding with a transfer include:

- ▶ To an individual you have only met online and not in person (for example, an online dating app).
- ▶ For an emergency situation you have not confirmed
- ▶ For an online shopping purchase
- ▶ For a deposit or payment into a pyramid or investment scheme
- ▶ For anti-virus protection
- ▶ For a deposit or payment on a rental property
- ▶ For a charity donation
- ▶ To resolve an immigration or visa matter
- ▶ To claim lottery or prize winnings
- ▶ To pay taxes
- ▶ To pay for something in response to a telemarketing call
- ▶ For an Investment/Market Trading Opportunity

For further information regarding scams and fraud we recommend researching "Companies you should not deal with" on the Moneysmart website moneysmart.gov.au or visiting scamwatch.gov.au

The Bank disclaims all liability whatsoever for any delay, mistake, misinterpretation of instruction or omission which may occur with this TT except where any occurrence, event or omission is caused by the negligence of the Bank.
